Kem Edwards is competing for success at the London Olympics

Kem Edwards has won the CompeteFor "Tier 2 Contractors Award" in recognition of the contribution to the Olympic programme it has made by posting the most supply chain opportunities on CompeteFor.

CompeteFor is an online portal that promotes the pre-tendering process for opportunities created by the construction of the London Olympic 2012 facilities. Judged by the Olympic Delivery Authority (ODA) Buyer Engagement team, the award recognises Kem Edwards commitment to spreading the benefits of the 2012 Games as widely as possible.

Richard Edwards, Managing Director – Kem Edwards comments: "We are absolutely delighted to have won this award. An estimated 75,000 future business opportunities, around £6 billion of work, is expected to be allocated by the ODA and London Organising Committee (LOCOG) and we are pleased to be part of this exciting UK construction project."

The London Development Agency (LDA) developed the concept of CompeteFor with private sector partner the London Business Network, in conjunction with London 2012. It acts as a brokerage service between buyers throughout the London 2012 supply chain, and potential suppliers. In addition, CompeteFor also provides access to building support services; building skills and capacity, to ensure that businesses across the UK can access opportunities linked to the construction of the London 2012 facilities.
